Relocating to Cork

Céad Míle Fáilte! One Hundred Thousand Welcomes!

The opportunities that exist to live and work in one of Ireland's most captivating cities makes Tyndall National Institute the ideal choice for people who wish to broaden their professional work and life experiences internationally.

Cork has the perfect lifestyle balance – a vibrant, bustling city set in a county with some of the most spectacular natural beauty in Europe. The city itself is compact with many unspoiled mountains, lakes, rivers and beaches are just a short drive from the city centre and even in the heart of the county, you are never more than an hour from the spectacular Atlantic coastline.

Cork was selected as European Capital of Culture in 2005 – a tremendous boost to a city that has more theatres, concert venues, arts centres and galleries per head of population than any other Irish city.

Cork City is Ireland's third city (after Dublin and Belfast) with more than a quarter of a million people working, studying and living their everyday lives in the thriving Cork Metropolitan area.

Relocating to Ireland

At Tyndall National Institute we currently host people from a total of 38 different countries worldwide each of these people enjoying what Cork and Ireland has to offer them.

A move to Tyndall National Institute will not only provide you with the chance to further develop your career in Ireland’s leading Research Institute but also the opportunity to live in Cork, a city steeped in a rich cultural heritage.

We are committed to ensuring that everyone who joins us is made to feel welcome and given every opportunity to meet people, make friends and enjoy the experience of living and working in Cork.

Newcomer's Guide to Cork here (1.17 MB)